Angela Lindvall is renowned for her creative versatility: she brings that quality to her professional life as a top model, actress and TV host, as well as to her private life as a teacher of kundalini yoga, avid environmentalist, wellness advocate, and mother.

ANGELA
LINDVALL

Born in Midwest City, Oklahoma, Angela was discovered at the age of 14 modeling in a fashion show in Kansas City. Lindvall soon became one of the world's most enduringly sought-after models, appearing in major publications including national and international edition Vogue, Elle, Harper's Bazaar, W, Marie Claire and L'Official, to name a few.

Known as a true chameleon, Lindvall has fronted campaigns for brands such as Chanel, Versace, Dior, Calvin Klein and Louis Vuitton, was a regular presence at the Victoria's Secret fashion show from 2000 to 2008, and graced the 2004 40th Anniversary Sports Illustrated Swimsuit Issue.

As an actress, Angela has appeared in the films CQ, Kiss Kiss Bang Bang, and Pearblossom.

These days, however, Angela is more focused on environmental activism and yoga. Lindvall's creative work lies at the intersection of style and substance. Throughout her fashion career, she has influenced the values of the industry through her personal commitment to ecology and spiritual growth, emerging as an advocate for environmental sustainability, personal and community wellness, and a holistic approach to life and style.

Lindvall has added even more to her already full plate: She's a mother of two; the creator of a new platform, Peace Begins In Me; and spokeswoman for Citizen's ongoing Get a Light, Give a Light program, donating solar-powered lights to disaster-stricken communities for each Eco-Drive watch sold.

COVER STAR

Angela is known for her versatile look that makes her a seamless fit through and through. She's graced more than 100 national and international magazine covers of Vogue, Elle, Harper's Bazaar, W, Marie Claire and more.

THE MINDFULL SUPERMODEL

Ever since Angela was launched into a globe-trotting fashion career as a teenager, she has utilized her travels and collaborations with the world's top creative talents as opportunities for self-discovery and personal growth. She is certified as a Kundalini yoga instructor and a graduate of The Institute of Integrative Nutrition. In May of 2019 Angela launched Peace Begins In Me, a platform for peace and has designed her property as an eco-sanctuary that hosts health and wellness workshops and classes.

“Self-care implies not only caring for yourself physically and spiritually, it means taking care of the world we live in,” she says. “In that sense, self-care is probably the most important thing we can do for ourselves and for our planet.”

The Multi-Hyphenate Role Model

Long before sustainability was a standard discussion in fashion, Angela Lindvall was spreading the word about environmental causes.

In 2005, Lindvall launched the pioneering non-profit initiative The Collage Foundation Inc, an educational entertainment platform advocating environmental awareness and positive change. Collage was pivotal in bringing the concept of “green” to the mainstream, and helped to create The Rockland Farm Alliance, a community-supported agriculture nonprofit just outside of New York City that continues to thrive today.

One of the earliest voices to call for more sustainable practices in the fashion industry, Lindvall was selected to host one of the first major “green fashion” shows during New York Fashion Week, 2007’s Be Eco Chic.

She is also a founding board member of the Natural Resources Defense Council’s Clean by Design, an initiative to green the textile industry in China.

In 2011 Lindvall became the spokeswoman for Pure DKNY, a socially responsible fragrance. She traveled to Uganda to document the partnership with C.A.R.E International which created a savings and loans program for women through the harvesting of vanilla. “ It really gave me a first hand perspective of how we can do ethical business and positively affect the lives of others,” she
